Samarth 2012: A Brief Introduction

It was the month of August, 2011 when the Himachal Pradesh State Disaster Management Authority (HPSDMA) decided to join the global community on DRR and to observe the International Day of Disaster Reduction (IDDR). The Authority laid out a plan to organize a statewide Mass Awareness Campaign on Disaster Risk Reduction and named the Campaign as 'Samarth', which means "capable" in English. Through 'Samarth 2011', the HPSDMA targeted different sections of the society and organized various capacity building events for students, teachers, media, hospitals, volunteers and the community at large. A range of I.E.C. material was developed and disseminated to enhance the understanding, awareness and sensitization about disasters and their management while focusing on preparedness.

Capitalizing on the success of 'Samarth 2011', the HPSDMA aims to organize a more effective, innovative and participatory Campaign in the year 2012. In order to achieve the objectives of 'Samarth 2012', it is very crucial for every citizen of Himachal Pradesh and all Line-Departments, Media Houses, Academic & Research Institutions, Corporate Houses, GOs, NGOs and CBOs to participate pro-actively in the campaign and contribute effectively to the process of making Himachal Pradesh a state resilient to disasters. While IDDR is a global event, the HPSDMA requests all concerned individuals and organizations to clearly understand the theme and key messages of the IDDR 2012, which are provided below alongwith the tentative schedule of the activities to be carried out during 'Samarth 2012' at State as well as district-level. Please note that this year IDDR will be observed on October 12, 2012 (Friday).

IDDR 2012: The Theme

The theme of the IDDR 2012 is 'Women and Girls: The [In]visible Force of Resilience'. But it does not imply that women and girls are invisible.

- It is about drawing attention to the fact that their efforts to protect and rebuild their communities before and after disasters are often unrecognized and that 'invisibility' is a socio-cultural construct.
- It is about highlighting that their ability to contribute is hindered by lack of inclusion and poor understanding of gender inequality.
- It is about celebrating the contribution women and girls are making before, during and after a disaster.
- It is about moving beyond the tendency to view and portray women and girls as victims. And even though women and girls feature disproportionately among the casualties of disasters they are 'active victims'.
- It is about stories of action and initiative by women and girls, and it also seeks to shed light on the obstacles that prevent them from participating in Disaster Risk Reduction and Climate Change Adaptation.

Key Messages of IDDR 2012:

- Empower women & girls for a safer tomorrow.
- Women & girls are powerful agents of change.
- A resilient community is a gender-sensitive community.
